Activities

Shorten Summer

Traditionally, summer is the time for students to have some time away from school. Each Redskin had his own way of spending the summer. Some chose to work; others decided to play and enjoy their leisure, but many Redskins devoted a portion of their summer to activities in which they represented their school. Athletes took part in summer activities to prepare themselves for the fall sports season.

The cheerleaders traveled to cheerleading camp at Indiana University. They represented us well by placing high in competition with squads from other high schools throughout the state.

On the academic side, Earl Clausson, Brian Lakstins, Craig Flandermeyer, and Brad Walker were representatives to Boys' State at Indiana State University. Hoosier Girls' State delegates were Kathy McHugh, Aletha Gee, Mildred Fox, and Sherry Cox.

Members of the band and the flag corps put in many hours at band camp during the summer. Working hand in hand, they sweated through the heat of the hot summer days.

While most students were still enjoying the lazy days of summer, cross country runners and volleyball players began training for their seasons. Football, the most popular of the fall sports, requires athletes to be in top condition. Football players underwent vigorous workouts during the summer.

The annual Strawberry Festival added a refreshing touch to the summer. Senior Raynel Berry was Manual's candidate for Strawberry Festival queen.

After a busy summer of working, learning, and just relaxing in the sun, students looked forward to the end of summer and the beginning of the school year.

Places To Go; People To See; Things To Do

After a hard day's work at school, the search was on for a place to go and relax. Some of the most popular hangouts were Noble Roman's, Union Station, arcades, and the shopping malls.

Noble Roman's was a favorite place for Manualites to go after a sporting event. They gathered there to eat, to meet fellow students, and to celebrate a good game. Even waiting in line to order or waiting to get a seat proved to be fun.

Malls were also popular places with Manual students. They met at the malls to go shopping, eat lunch, go to arcades, or just walk around. Feeding quarters or tokens into machines may not be everyone's idea of fun, but some Manualites enjoyed beating the high score and putting their initials on a popular, hard-to-beat game.

Union Station was a new place for Redskins to try. There were many shops to choose from when they wanted to get something for that special person and just couldn't seem to find it. Redskins could watch a live dance show as they enjoyed a snack or dinner.

Cruising Madison Avenue wasn't as popular as it used to be, but it was still a traditional pastime for some Redskins. Cruising downtown and around Monument Circle became the new place to go.

There were many places Redskins could go when they needed to get out and have fun, or when they wanted to celebrate a victory or a special accomplishment.

ALADDIN'S CASTLE, a video arcade at the Greenwood Park Mall, is a popular hangout for Manual students.

THE FOOD COURT at Greenwood Park Mall is a place to eat, relax, people-watch, and meet fellow Redskins.

ENJOYING PIZZA and a good time at Noble Roman's are Kenny Jones, Tammy Terrell, and Nicole Robinson, juniors.

1986 Junior Prom — A Night of Romance and Fun

"Give it to me,
straight from the heart,
Tell me we can make one more start,
You know I'll never go.
As long as I know, it's comin'
straight from the heart ..."

Bryan Adams

After straightening ties, pinning on corsages, and posing for an infinite number of pictures for parents and relatives, the juniors and their dates whirled their way into a magical night of romance and excitement, filled with candlelight dinners, carriage rides, and slow dancing.

Pink and white balloons, carnations, crepe paper and confetti decorated the site of the May 17 Junior Prom, the theme of which was "Straight from the Heart." Held at the Murat Shrine Temple, the prom provided juniors with an opportunity to dress their finest and indulge themselves in a more sophisticated, but by no means inexpensive, night on the town.

THROUGHOUT THE EVENING senior Anthony Smith and sophomore Marquita Dodson dance their way into their own night of enchantment.

After dining at some of the finer restaurants in downtown Indianapolis, the couples made their way to the prom, which lasted from 9:00 p.m. to 12:00 p.m.

After being photographed and ordering pictures, the juniors voted for prom royalty, dined on hors d'oeuvres, and danced to the music of the Continentals.

During intermission, prom royalty was announced. Raynel Berry was crowned queen and Scott Begley was crowned king. As the king and queen led the next dance, the other couples joined in.

The hard work and dedication of a few made the evening possible for all to enjoy. As the last dance was played, it was obvious that a special night had come and gone — straight from the heart.

CAUGHT UP IN THE ROMANTIC atmosphere of the prom, senior Robin Ganstine and 1984 graduate Bob Smith share a special moment.

SWAYING TO THE MUSIC, seniors Nancy Spears and Michael Paige enjoy each others company.

THE THEME OF THE PROM "Straight from the Heart" and the prom colors of pink and white set the mood for a romantic evening.

ENJOYING THE PROM FESTIVITIES, couples dance to the music of the Continentals.

The World Around Us

Many special and exciting events took place during the past year. One event that received much attention was the unveiling of the Statue of Liberty. To mark her one-hundredth birthday, Lady Liberty received a complete refurbishing. A huge three-day celebration took place in New York City during the Fourth of July weekend.

Two prominent weddings received media coverage. On July 19, on Cape Cod, Caroline Kennedy, daughter of slain President John F. Kennedy, married artist Ed Schlossberg. A few days later on July 23, the royal wedding of Prince Andrew Albert Christian Edward and Sarah Margaret Ferguson, better known to the public as "Fergie," took place in London.

THE NEWLY-RENOVATED Union Station brightens downtown Indy.

A major newsmaker on the local scene was the new Union Station. Filled with unusual shops, eating places, and entertainment, it quickly became a good place to spend a few hours or an entire evening.

A renovation of our own statue, Monument Circle, was begun. It is scheduled to be completed in two years.

One event which is always special is the Indy 500. After having been rained out for two days, the race was postponed for a week. Such a postponement had never occurred at Indy. The race was won by Bobby Rahal.

Students were aware of the world around them locally, nationally, and internationally.

School Spirit Fills the Air

Spirit Week was a fun-filled, colorful, and lively week that traditionally ends with Homecoming. Once again, the Senior Council was in charge of the festivities.

The theme for two dress-up days during the week were "Fabulous Fifties" and "Hawaiian Shirt" days. So many students took part in these days, they were declared to be a huge success.

On Fifties Day the girls wore poodle skirts, bobby sox, or rolled-up jeans. Some chose hair styles of the fifties — bangs that were curled under, pony tails, or duck tails. Several of the guys sported loafers, a popular shoe style of that era. Hawaiian shirt day was also a big hit.

Brilliantly-colored shirts filled the halls.

"The team and I were really pleased with the students who decorated, dressed up, and got involved in Homecoming week. It was probably the best we've had in at least five years," remarked Dennis Jackson, head football coach and senior class sponsor.

Friday, the final day of Spirit Week, was also Homecoming. The Redskin spirit was high. Red and white filled the halls in the form of signs, balloons, and crepe paper garlands.

Spirit Week had come to an end, but school spirit was really just beginning.

Fun and Games

The 1986 Pow Wow, Manual's traditional spring carnival, was held in the newly-renovated gym. Students, teachers, parents, and friends in the community enjoyed an evening of food, fun, and games. The annual Pow Wow was sponsored by the PTO as its main fund-raiser of the school year.

Upperclassmen continued the traditions of previous Pow Wow's, while new Redskins began their own traditions. Teachers and students alike pitched in to help make the Pow Wow a success.

Masoma pledges became targets at the club's "Squirt the Flirt" booth, and the Math Club used a new theme for their booth, "Dart the Teacher." The batting cage, manned by the baseball team; Bingo, sponsored by Student Affairs Board; and FCA's basketball throw were some of the booths that were both challenging and fun.

Each club received a share of its booth's profits. The remainder of the money was used by the PTO to support many activities of students throughout the school year.

At the dance in the cafeteria that followed the Pow Wow, 1986 graduates Danny Johnston and Shelly Cox were crowned Pow Wow king and queen.

WAITING TO BE RELEASED from the Thespian "jail" are Aletha Gee, senior, and Ron Winkler, junior.

THE ARTS ALSO BENEFITTED from the Manual-Lilly Partnership. Music students listen intently to one of the many guest artists this program has provided.

Students Benefit From Partnership

One of Manual's greatest assets was partnership in education with Eli Lilly. This organization gave Manual students the opportunity to participate in a variety of programs encompassing almost every aspect of education. Headed by Mrs. Sarah Bogard of Manual and Mr. Gene McCormick of Eli Lilly, this partnership was one of the most successful anywhere.

The Lilly-Manual task force tried to cover all areas of interest and include the entire student body. For example, the Advanced Placement Biology class held a program in the media center which demonstrated different experiments often used at Lilly. Shop classes toured the industrial areas of the Lilly plant to see how their skills could be put to work. The officers of the Applied Economics classes were trained by Lilly professionals in their specific job areas.

Programs were also offered to give students practical information about the job world and keys to success. Lilly sponsored a shadowing program in which students were paired with professionals working in different careers. Each student spent a day working with his "shadow" and getting a glimpse of his possible future career. Students also had a chance to participate in "Opportunities to Learn About Business," a ten-day program designed to teach participants about commercial business and economics.

The Manual-Eli Lilly partnership provided students with a broad spectrum of activities. Truly, it helped Manual set higher standards in education.

Academics

In-Depth Study

Academic classes were offered in many different departments at Manual. These classes enabled students to meet graduation requirements and helped college-bound students to prepare for the demands that would be made on them at the university level.

The academic classes included physics, chemistry, advanced math, foreign languages, and advanced placement classes in English and biology. Enrollment in advanced placement classes was offered to those students who wanted to test out of these courses in college.

Two popular academic classes were Histlish and speech, both taught by Mrs. Marilyn Dever. Commenting about speech class, Mrs. Dever said, "It is hard to get people to take the plunge into this class." She added that once students make up their mind to take the class, they do very well.

Histlish was an accelerated class that combined U.S. history and English in a two-hour class. Mrs. Dever admitted that this was her favorite class. She commented, "I attribute a great deal of that to the closeness developed over an entire school year, as opposed to students changing each semester, and to the time involved with two periods rather than one."

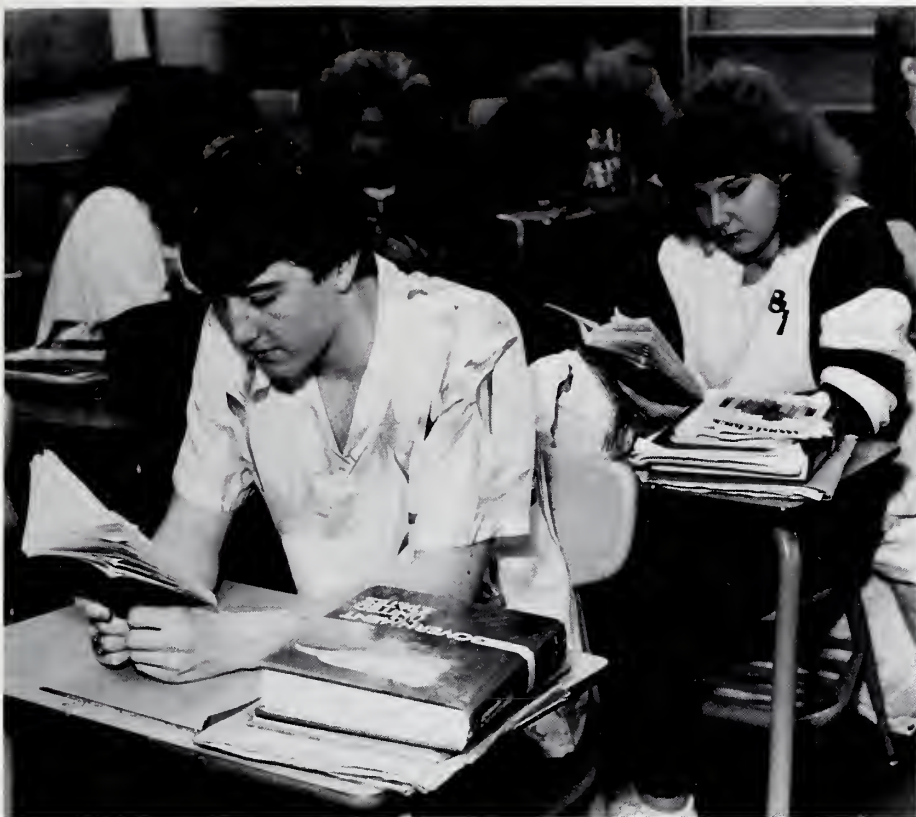

Each academic class offered at Manual helped to further the education of Manual students. These courses were a very important part of a student's school day.

AN ADVANCED MATH STUDENT, senior Tamatha Crist concentrates on solving a problem in calculus.

TO THE DELIGHT of her audience, Rhonda Hawley, senior, delivers her speech before the class.

IN A.P. ENGLISH class, seniors Brad Walker and Tina McIntosh read a literary classic.

TO HELP HIS STUDENTS hear the language, Mr. David Phillips, foreign language chairman, plays a tape for juniors Melion Carroll and Kim Jones.

Required Classes Lead to Graduation

During each of the four years of high school, students were required to make out their own schedules. This task was made easier because of the classes that were required. These classes were needed in order to graduate, but also to provide valuable knowledge and to prepare students for the years after graduation.

English was a requirement for every student throughout high school. Math also had to be taken for at least two years. The freshman requirement was physical education. Although most freshmen do not like gym, the class gave them a sense of responsibility and discipline. For sophomores, biology was the required class.

For juniors, the only required class besides English was United States history. This class gave the students a better understanding of this country and its role in the world.

The senior requirements included such classes as health, government, and economics. All of these classes were required to help the students prepare for a productive and knowledgeable future.

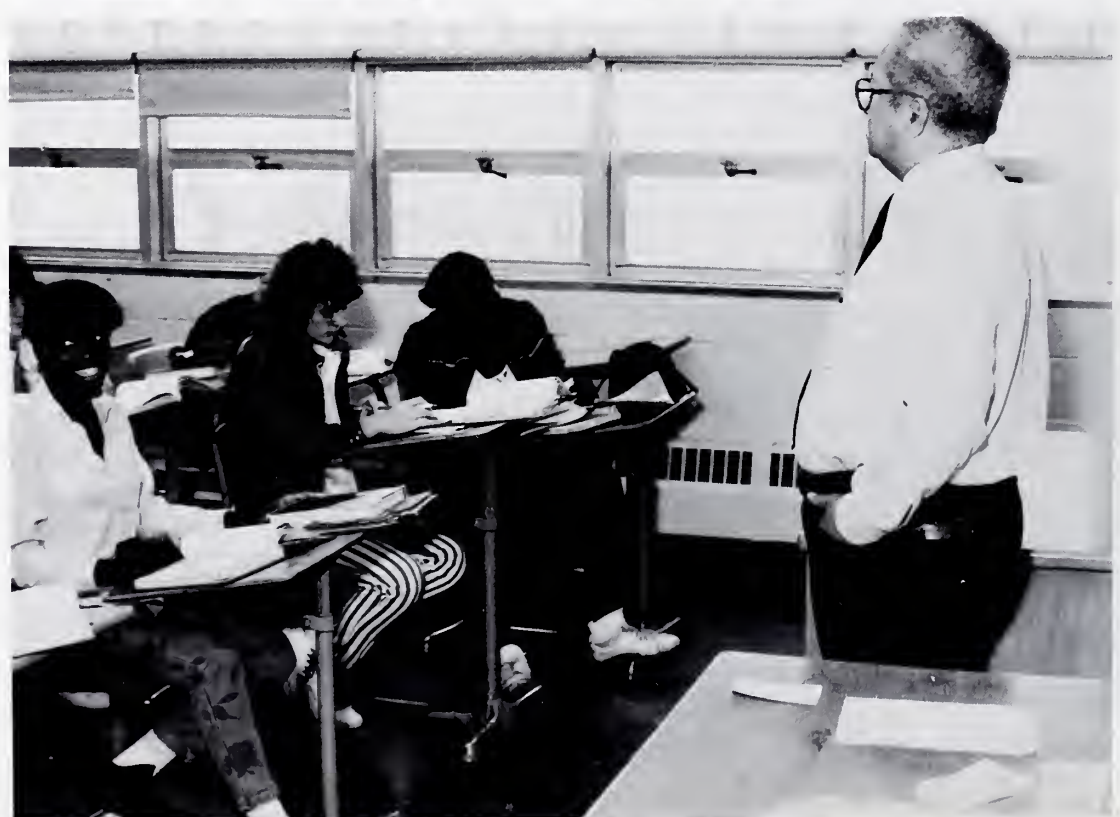

SENIOR TASHA DOUGLAS looks for a book with the information she needs for a report.

JUNIOR MARK WEST listens intently to a lecture in Introduction to Marketing, a class required of DECA students.

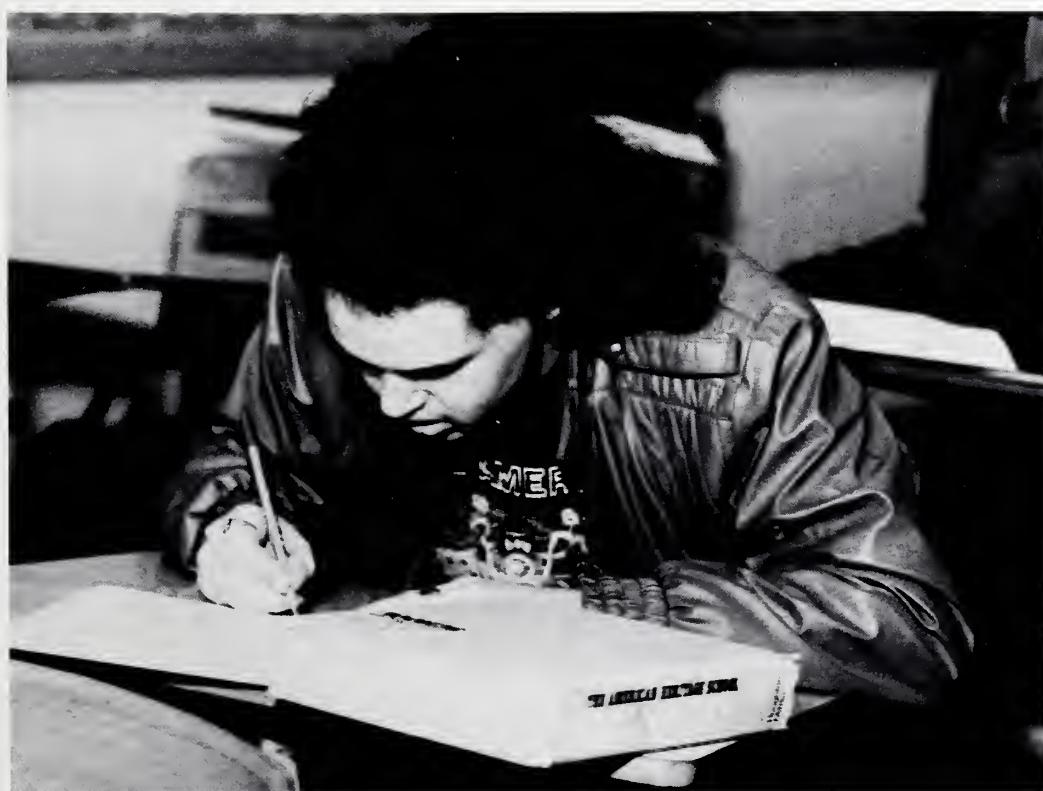

SUBSTITUTE Mr. Christian is ready to answer any question these math students have.

WORKING ON A READING assignment in English class are Willie White and Christie Willis, juniors.

USING CLASS TIME wisely, Tony Holland works to complete an assignment in class.

Training for Business

The Business department provided a variety of classes to meet the needs of students in a changing world. The more traditional courses like typing, shorthand, and accounting were still offered. These courses were designed to meet the needs of students who planned to do general office work after high school.

Introduction to Business was a class for underclassmen. In this class students learned how to fill out an application for employment, how to use a checking account, and other skills they would need after high school.

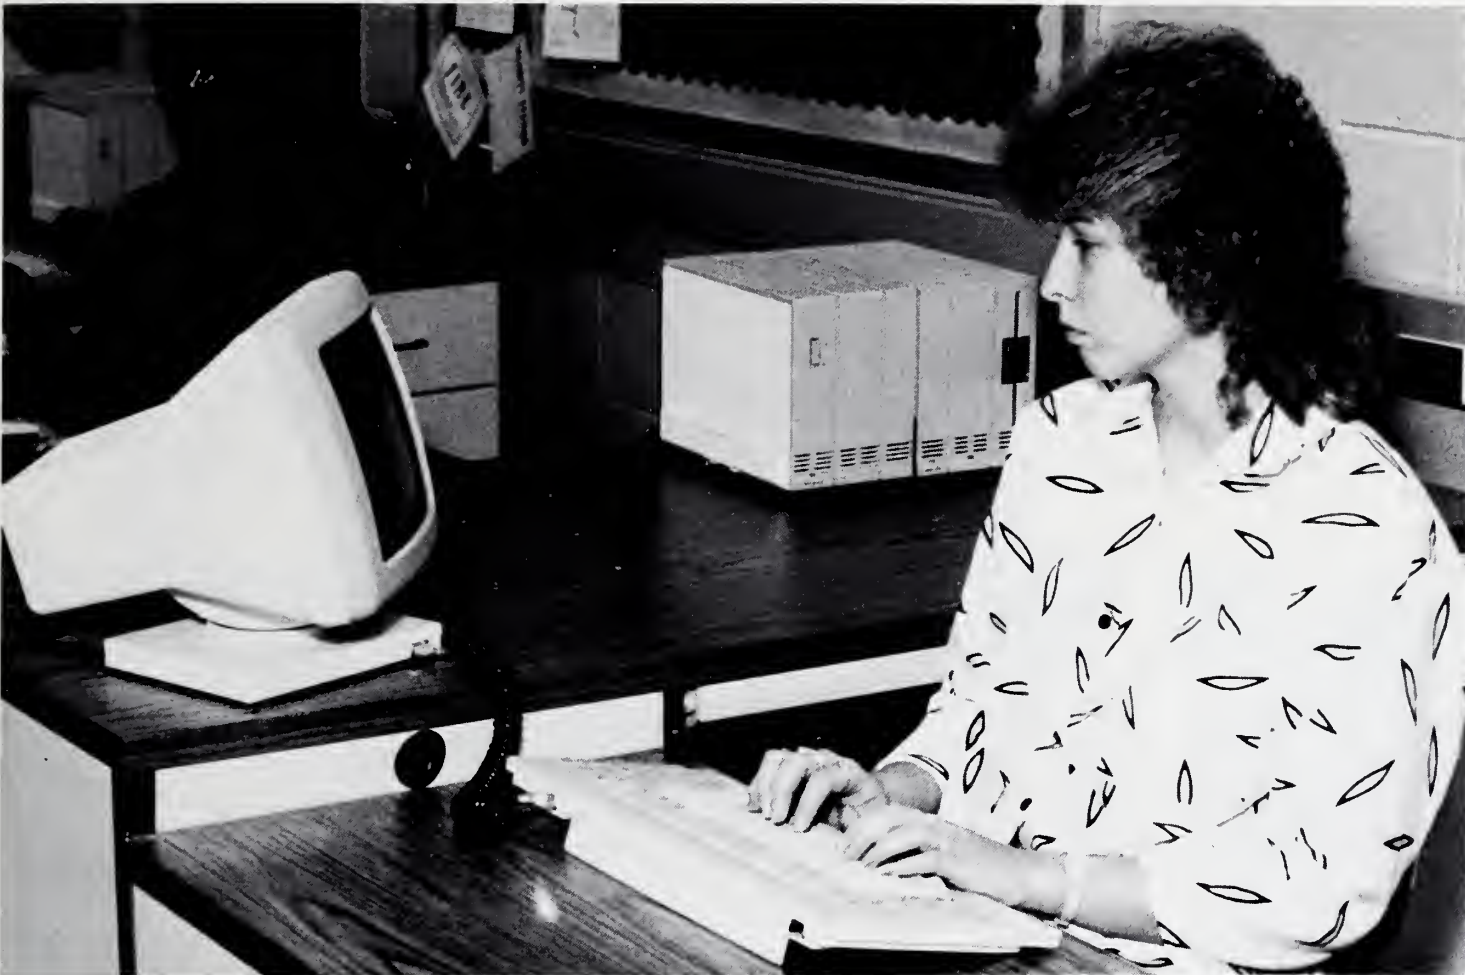

There were two specialized business classes for upperclassmen. COE and DE combined classroom instruction and on-the-job training for students. In these classes, students received high school credit and also a salary for their jobs.

SENIOR WANDA REAVES and junior Curtis McGuire look on as senior Luana Bowles shows them how to run a cash register.

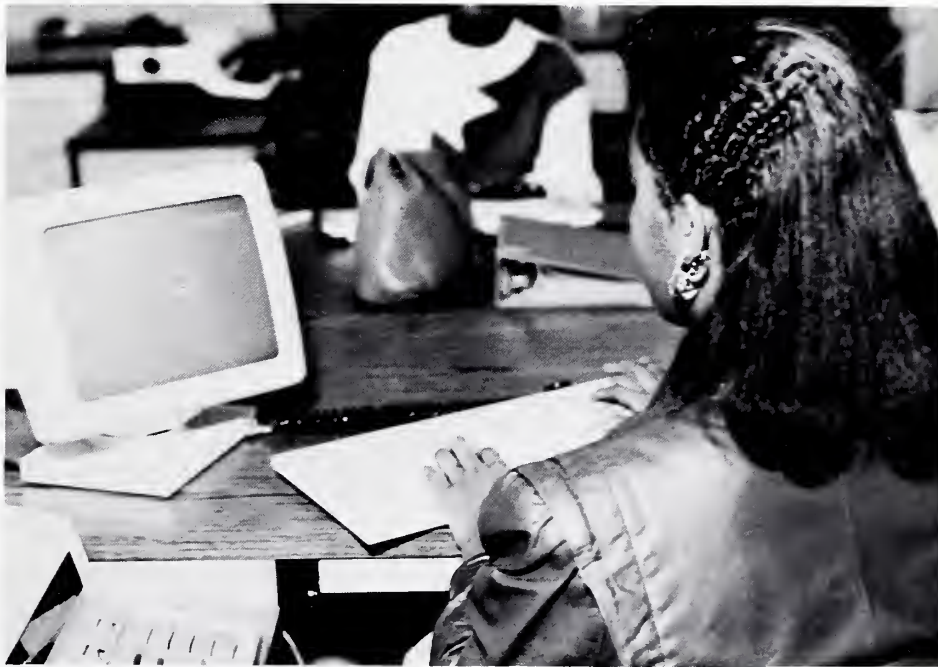

IN TYPING CLASS Erica Moore, junior, and Crissy Elkins, sophomore, strive for accuracy and speed.

USING A TEN-KEY CALCULATOR, junior Susan Majors solves a problem.

A SKILLED TYPIST, senior Jana Morgan keeps her fingers on the keys and her eyes on the computer screen.

IN COE CLASS, senior Damita Wiggins watches her screen as she completes her assignment.

Developing Skills for the Future

The Industrial Arts department had many course offerings and enjoyed a great turn out of students. Throughout the school year, industrial arts at Manual tried to improve the course offerings to meet the needs of all students. They were successful with large numbers of students in the department; however, they continued to look for ways to better serve all students.

The three skill courses that were offered were Vocational Auto Mechanics, Vocational Electronics, and Vocational I.C.T. These specialized courses were for students who were planning to seek employment in these areas immediately after high school.

The Industrial Arts department played a big role in helping students choose a career. The students seemed to enjoy themselves more when they were in groups. The teachers also seemed pleased with the trends that were changing the department.

The Home Economics department saw an increase in the number of students who enrolled in that department. More male students enrolled in home economics classes. The home economics classes not only taught students how to cook and sew, they also taught them skills that they would need later on in life. Foods teacher Miss Christine Wagner stated, "We talk about topics common in everyday life. We do things that students will need to know to make smart choices now and later on as adults."

IN CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRIES class, senior Charles Beauchamp and sophomore Lonnie Goble put the finishing touches on a utility building.

IN VOCATIONAL Auto Mechanics, juniors Joe Nelson and Reggie Ball search for the problem before making repairs.

KEEPING HER EYE on the scissors, Toni Nelson, sophomore, carefully cuts out the garment she is making in clothing class.

BEING CAREFUL not to miss anything, sophomore Troy Terry and junior Bobby Jones inspect under the hood for a possible problem.

Training for the Future

Both physical education and ROTC helped students develop to their full potential. In each of these departments, students worked to develop strength, agility, and self-discipline.

Physical education was a two-semester course that was required for graduation. Most students took physical education in their freshman year. However, some students continued to take advanced physical education throughout the four years of high school. A weight training class for athletes was a part of the Physical Education department.

In physical education classes students went through physical conditioning exercises. They also had an opportunity to learn to play different sports such as volleyball, football, soccer, basketball, archery, and horseshoes.

ROTC was an elective course that could be taken any time during the four years of high school. Some students elected to take eight semesters of ROTC. These classes were taught by Sgt. Bruce Blauvelt and Sgt. Thomas James.

ROTC gave students a chance to learn more about the military and helped them decide whether they wanted to enlist in the military after high school.

IN WEIGHT TRAINING class, junior Chad Majors spots junior Tom Person as he does his squat exercise.

FRESHMEN GIRLS practice their basketball skills in gym class.

TO BUILD UP his stomach muscles, junior Melion Carroll does sit-ups in advanced weight-lifting class.

ROTC CADET Mitchell Blackburn, junior, leads a class discussion with the Ranger team.

Band and Orchestra Showcase Talent

Manual's music department started off the year with several changes. With the closing of John Marshall High School, Manual acquired two talented individuals. Mr. Raymond Brandes became the new head of the department. He taught keyboard, orchestra, and kept things running smoothly.

Mrs. Kenya Ostermeier also came to Manual from John Marshall. She was the accompanist for the music department, and she also catalogued music. Mrs. Marilyn Bolin taught all the choir classes and a few keyboard classes.

Mr. Bruce R. Smith taught percussion, keyboard, and three bands: A band, B band, and C band.

The music department had a very busy year. In September, the Marching Band traveled to the Midwestern Marching Band Festival. Their efforts earned them two trophies. One was for first runner-up in the blue class, and the other was for a division-one rating. "Mr. Smith really helped us. We couldn't have done it without him," stated senior Lisa Conwell.

The marching season ended after the band traveled to Greenfield, Indiana, for its final competition of the season. They received a participation award.

After the marching season, the band went into concert band season.

KEEPING THE BEAT during a practice session are freshman Derrick Glass and Rob Baker, senior.

CONCENTRATING on her music, junior Melissa Renick hopes that practice makes perfect.

INSTRUCTING THE BAND to "Hold that note," Band Director Bruce R. Smith helps the band members reach their full potential.

Vocal Music — Manual Style

For many students, vocal music class was a welcome change from the reading, writing, and note-taking that was an important part of academic classes. In vocal music classes, students learned the proper techniques for producing the many sounds needed to be good vocalists.

Vocal music classes included Glee Club, Concert Choir, Manua-laires, and beginning choir. All of these classes were taught by Mrs. Marilyn Bolin. Mrs. Kenya Ostermeier was the accompanist for all the vocal music classes.

In these classes, the atmosphere was more relaxed and very pleasant.

"Vocal music students were taught to read music, not just to sing the words. One of my favorite sayings is 'I want smart musicians, not dumb copy cats!'" commented Mrs. Bolin.

Since the music department was not included in the recent renovation program, its facilities were not as adequate as those of some other IPS high schools.

PRACTICING THREE-PART harmony, these vocalists rehearse for a performance.

FILLED WITH THE SOUNDS of music, freshman Laura Blackburn waits for the director's signal.

MEMBERS OF THE CHOIR fill the halls with Christmas carols.

TO SING HER BEST, junior Roena Resnover follows the music carefully.

Being Creative

There were different kinds of creative classes that students took as electives, such as needle art, foods, music, clothing, and several different art classes. These classes gave students an opportunity to perfect their talents and express their individuality.

Needle art was a popular class in the home economics department. Quilts, pillows, and stuffed animals were a few of the projects the students worked on under the guidance of Mrs. Sarah Bogard.

The art department offered classes in painting, clay techniques, ceramics, design, and cartooning.

The relaxed atmosphere of the creative classes gave students a break from the more structured academic classes.

A MASTERPIECE of Redskin artistic talent is the Indianapolis skyline painted on the office wall of Mr. Don Johnson, art department chairman.

USING A FORK to create a design, junior Laura Dyer puts the finishing touches on a tooling cylinder.

PAYING CAREFUL ATTENTION to detail, sophomore Tracy Mann expands her unique design in art class.

ADDING TO HIS INTRICATE DESIGN, Matthew Borden, junior, blends the colors carefully.

Labs Enrich Classes

There were many different kinds of laboratory classes for students at Manual. These laboratories offered students a chance to expand on the information that was presented in textbooks or in lectures.

Laboratory activities were a very important part of science classes. The Advanced Placement biology students conducted a lab for underclassmen in the regular biology classes. The program was called "What Does a Scientist Do?" and it was sponsored by Eli Lilly, Manual's Partner in Education.

Another lab that was available for students was the computer lab. The two computer labs were used nearly every period of the day on nearly every day of the school year. The computer labs were used primarily by art, math, and English classes under the direction of Mrs. Janet Milenbaugh, computer specialist. In the lab students worked at their own pace on computer programs designed to enrich the instruction they received in their classes.

IN HIS BIOLOGY CLASS, Mr. Mike Swinford uses a chart to help his students understand phenotypes and genotypes.

Journalists Capture the Year's Activities

The Publications office was thought to be merely a room to joke around and have fun in, but to Mrs. Kathryn Guignard, Mrs. Louise Plummer, and the newspaper and yearbook staff members, there was time for fun, but when it came to meeting deadlines, there was plenty of work to be done.

Mrs. Guignard was in charge of Manual's newspaper, THE BOOSTER. Senior Kim Kelly was the editor-in-chief. This year, the BOOSTER was published tri-weekly rather than bi-weekly, as it had been for many years. The paper covered events from who made the honor roll to social events such as sports and dances sponsored by the school.

The yearbook advisor was Mrs. Plummer. Co-editors were Raynel Berry and Christy Lewis, both seniors. The IVIAN staff struggled to meet its deadlines. They did not see the results of their efforts until the book arrived in May.

"It took a lot of hard work, dedication, and organization, but the results always made the efforts very worthwhile," commented senior Raynel Berry.

NEWSPAPER STAFF MEMBER Janel Smith folds a BOOSTER so they can be distributed to the students.

Senior Honor Clubs Set the Standard

Two of the strongest traditions at Manual were the senior honor clubs of Roines and Masoma. These exclusive organizations consisted of seniors who met certain academic and honor point requirements and also received recommendations from the deans and teachers.

Roines and Masoma were probably best known for their crazy antics during their two weeks of pledging in which pledges were asked to show their desire to become members by doing all sorts of unusual and embarrassing activities. Duck walks, bucket races, and sing-alongs were among the Roines' favorites. Each day, Masoma pledges dressed up as different characters which included vegetables, animals, or movie stars.

Although most of the pledges agreed that pledging was difficult, no one ever had any regrets after finally becoming an active. Masoma Raynel Berry stated, "Even though pledging was at times humiliating, it was well worth the time and trouble to become an active. Besides, when it's time to pledge new members, revenge is sweet."

The main purpose of these clubs was to provide service to the school. Roines made the traditional Christmas wreath and did odd jobs around the school. Masomas sold mums for Homecoming and made Easter baskets for a group of needy children.

There was a tremendous amount of pride and fellowship within each of these clubs. This feeling of unity was probably their most appealing quality. Roines and Masoma have been long-standing traditions of which Manual was very proud.

HOLDING THE DOOR for their "most honorable big brother," Craig Flandermeyer, are Kevin Schwab and Frank Hardcastle, seniors.

Language Students Have Fun Learning

The French Club, Spanish Club, and Latin Club provided an opportunity for foreign language students to expand their knowledge of a language in a more relaxed atmosphere than the classroom allowed.

Although members of these clubs were not required to take a foreign language, most club members did. Holidays, foods, traditions, geography, and history were a few of the things these students learned about in language classes.

The Spanish Club, sponsored by Miss Ann Manning, gave students a chance to widen their views on Spanish culture. The club visited Chi Chi's Restaurant to enjoy some tasty Mexican foods. So that the club was able to have a good time at little cost, the members sold candy.

Besides learning to read, write, speak, and understand French, the students in French Club also learned about the culture of the country. One of the club activities was a trip to Chicago in the fall. French Club was sponsored by Mr. David Phillips. The club sold candy to help cover the cost of the trip.

Latin was not taught in most IPS high schools, but Manual was fortunate enough to have Latin classes and a Latin Club. Sponsored by Latin teacher Miss Carolyn Griffin, the members of Latin Club shared their interest in the language and in the history of ancient Rome.

TO BETTER UNDERSTAND the language, juniors Sheryl Davis and Kim Jones listen to Mr. David Phillips' recording in French.

Clubs Attract Athletes

Manual athletes had the chance to become a part of two special groups. Fellowship of Christian Athletes, better known as FCA, was one group that athletes could participate in to help them grow spiritually.

Although FCA encouraged athletes to become a part of their group, membership was open to any student at school.

FCA met every Thursday evening. Rachel Haley, junior, was the captain of the girls' huddle and Rick Warren, junior, was captain of the boys' huddle. The FCA sponsor was Mr. Ray Schultz, athletic director. Many of the meetings were held at his home.

"FCA has given me a chance to meet with a lot of my friends while learning about God in a fun way," commented Joey Burgess, junior.

To help raise money for the club, FCA members sold Valentine carnations and cards. They used the money to send athletes to FCA camps that were held at various colleges during the year.

Block M was an honor organization for athletes. To be in Block M, an athlete had to earn a letter in a varsity sport. After earning the letter, athletes could then receive a sweater and finally a letter jacket if they continued to participate in sports at the varsity level.

JUNIORS Daryl Whitlow and Rick Warren watch as Mr. Robert Hines tries for a basket at the FCA booth at the Pow Wow. Mr. Hines attends nearly every Manual athletic event.

Girls' Groups Show Spirit and Support

While school spirit often fluctuated between many highs and lows throughout a sports season, the dedication of the Secret Admirers, Trackettes, and Wrestlerettes never wavered.

The Secret Admirers were girls who showed their appreciation for football players throughout the season. One of the most popular ways of showing support for the football team was by decorating the players' lockers. Every Friday morning before school, the halls came to life with the exciting shuffling of streamers, decorations, and balloons.

At the end of the football season, the fall athletic banquet was held in the school cafeteria. The football players were finally introduced to their secret admirers. Many of the girls were even given gifts by the players in appreciation for all their dedication and thoughtfulness, but most of all for their never-ending support and encouragement.

During wrestling season, the Wrestlerettes showed their school spirit by attending wrestling meets to cheer the Manual squad on to victory.

In the spring, the Trackettes assisted at the track meets by keeping score, giving placement ribbons, and recording the times and distances.

While the athletes received the well-deserved recognition for their devotion to their school and their sport, the many girls who volunteered their time to give those athletes a continual boost proved to be more effective than any locker room pep talk ever will.

AFTER BEING INTRODUCED to his secret admirer Casey Kelly, sophomore John Flandermeyer gives her roses and a stuffed animal to show his appreciation.

ENJOYING THE ATTENTION showered on him by his secret admirer, senior Jeff Campbell opens his locker to find more surprises.

Students Honored for Scholastic Achievement

National Honor Society and Quill and Scroll are two groups that honored Manual students for a high degree of service and academic standing.

Quill and Scroll was an organization that honored high school journalists. Any junior or senior who had worked on the school newspaper or the yearbook for at least one year could be a member of Quill and Scroll. In addition, students had to have a high academic standing to be eligible for Manual's chapter of this national organization. This group was sponsored by Mrs. Kathryn Guignard.

The National Honor Society was primarily a scholastic honorary. To be considered for membership in this prestigious group, students had to maintain a high academic average throughout their high school careers.

In addition to the scholastic requirements, eligible students had to have participated in several school activities. Miss Carolyn Griffin was the sponsor of this organization.

Juniors and seniors who had met all the requirements for membership were accepted into the society in a formal induction ceremony in May.

National Honor Society member Tamatha Crist exclaimed, "I am proud to be president of National Honor Society. It is good to know that students who put forth a great effort throughout their high school career may be awarded with such a high honor."

Co-op Programs Give Students Opportunities

ICT, DECA, and COE were the three cooperative classes which Manual provided. These classes allowed students to go to school for four periods and then leave and go to work. Students received school credit for their employment. Each of these classes tried to help the student to get an idea of what the working world was like.

DECA and ICT had many guest speakers come to share their knowledge of the business world with the students. Several speakers talked about the job interview.

Seven DECA students represented Manual in the district competition on January 24, at Central-Nine Vocational School. Mike Paige took first place in the Full Service Restaurant Marketing; Jamie Metzger took second place in Free Enterprising, and Gina Ball took third place in Apparel Accessories.

Musicians Reach for Quality

The performing groups in the instrumental music department had a very productive year. While most students were still enjoying their summer vacation, faithful members of Manual's marching band attended band camp under the direction of Mr. Bruce Smith. Camp gave band members an opportunity to get an early start on the fall marching season.

In October, the music department sold candy to replace funds that had been spent during the year. Another fund-raising activity for the band was a pizza sale which was sponsored by the Band Boosters.

In December, the music department had a Christmas concert. All musical groups performed at this concert. "Being in band for four years has been fun. Spending all summer and every school day with my friends has made the band seem like a second family to me. I'm really going to miss all the friends I've made in band," stated senior Leeah Woods.

Near the end of school, the band held its banquet where they recognized those students who had worked hard throughout the year.

DURING BAND CLASS, junior Karrie Kelley and sophomore Jennifer Moles practice on their clarinets to produce just the right sound.

Service Groups Represent School

Manual had several groups that performed various services around school. Three such clubs were the Student Affairs Board, Students Against Drunk Driving, and Brain Game.

Student Affairs Board, sponsored by Mrs. Marilyn Dever, had twelve members. These members were elected as representatives of their respective classes. Their duty was to voice the students' opinions on important issues related to school. Board member Carrie Groce remarked, "SAB is a fun organization. Not only do we try to help the student body as a group, but we also try to do what we can for the community."

Students Against Drunk Driving, better known as SADD, devoted their time and efforts toward preventing young people from drinking and driving. These concerned students wanted to stop the careless loss of life that results from drinking and driving. This group was sponsored by Mr. Gerald Swinford and Mrs. Kris Graham. The club used posters in the halls, P-A announcements, and articles in the Booster as ways to reach students.

The Brain Game team represented the school in a televised competition against a team from Carmel High School. Mrs. Mary Thomas was their sponsor. Although the team was defeated by Carmel, the students had put in many hours of preparation. Team member Raynel Berry, senior, commented, "Being on the Brain Game team was a real learning experience. Even though it was quite a challenge, it was also a lot of fun."

The members of these three clubs contributed much to both their school and their community.

A Chance to be Creative

With the traveling plays in the summer, the one-act plays in the fall, and the Redskin Revue in the spring, students with a flair for dramatics kept busy throughout the year.

The stage crew, under the direction of Mr. Carl Wright, built sets and operated the curtains, the light board, and the sound system. The stage crew kept things running smoothly behind the scenes.

"At the end of a successful play, you get the pride of saying 'I made that.' It's a lot of hard work, but fulfilling," said Wanda Honeycutt, a junior member of the stage crew.

Thespians and Mask & Wig were two organizations for students who had participated in dramatic productions. These groups, sponsored by Mr. Fred Bennett, were responsible for the traveling plays, the one-acts, and other dramatic activities during the school year.

Mask & Wig members ranged from freshmen to seniors, while those in Thespians were upperclassmen. Both groups worked hard to make their performances successful. "Being in the International Thespians Society has had some great advantages. I've learned a lot about the theater and I've made quite a few friends through the society," said Leeah Woods, senior.

The Redskin Revue Committee was responsible for the annual spring production of student-written and student directed skits. Traditionally, Redskin Revue was the major dramatic production of the year.

This year's acts were "The Three Little Pigs," written by Brian Lakstins and Tammy Crist; "Alice in the Briar Patch," by Lanette Dickinson; and "Rumplestiltskin," written by Brian Sholders and Dawn Haapala.

AT THE ANNUAL PTO PowWow, Chris Grison anxiously awaits his release from the Thespians' jail.

Clubs Develop Interests

Special interest groups gave students an opportunity to develop skills and have fun in a more relaxed atmosphere.

The A-V Club attracted students interested in the Media Center. Club members participated in operating projectors, videotaping, and laminating. Sponsored by Mrs. Virginia McDonald, the club was active throughout the year.

The Art Club was under the supervision of Mrs. Terry Clark. This club had one of the more popular booths at the Pow Wow. Art Club members painted designs on the face of any willing participant. The Art Club was open to any student who wanted to be a part of the group.

The Home Economics Club was sponsored by Mrs. Frances Benson. Their activities included parties, guest speakers, and field trips.

Clubs Develop Interests

The Naturalist Club and the Math Club are two academic clubs offered at Manual. Through these clubs students with an interest in science or math developed those interests in a fun way.

The Naturalist Club, formerly known as the Science Club, centered its activities around nature and the environment. In December, members sold poinsettias in order to raise money for field trips. Sophomore Jason Broadstreet explained, "The Naturalist Club is a fun club to be in. We go on field trips and bird watching excursions at Eagle Creek. It is an experience that will last a lifetime."

The Math Club participated in contests with clubs from other schools. Eli Lilly, Manual's Partner in Education, sponsored some field trips and participated with members in club activities.

The Key Club was a school service organization. In stressing leadership through service, the Key Club served an important purpose and interacted with the community. During the Christmas season, the Key Club sponsored a canned food drive to assist needy families during the financially trying holiday season.

Following the Homecoming festivities, the club sponsored the annual Homecoming dance.

Through serving the needs of others, this club played a crucial role in the success of the school's extra-curricular program.

Precision Groups

Within the ROTC department there were several organizations: the rangers, the rifle team, color guard and drill teams. Each of these groups practiced individually to perfect their skills.

These groups performed several needed services around school. One of their assignments was to present the colors at home ball games. They also assisted at Parents in Touch, the auction, and Redskin Revue.

In November, these groups represented their school at the annual Veteran's Day parade in downtown Indianapolis.

The rifle team competed with rifle teams from other schools. Students in these groups took pride in their accomplishments. Discipline and precision were their goals.

A New Look — A Great Sound

The three performing vocal groups in Manual's music department spent many hours learning new music, rehearsing new routines, and entertaining in the community.

Manualaires was a singing and dancing group that was directed by Mrs. Marilyn Bolin. After spending time each day perfecting their song and dance numbers, the girls in their new red dresses and the boys in their classy tuxedos took their show on the road.

They performed for the Eli Lilly employees during the Christmas season and for the visiting North Central evaluation team at a reception held in their honor. Kathy McHugh, a senior member of the Manualaires, said, "The hours of practice were worthwhile when we saw the joy that our music brought to the people in the audience."

Another performing group, Concert Choir, was also directed by Mrs. Bolin. They performed at several school functions and also at churches and nursing homes in the community.

Teams on the Move

The Chess Club and the Bowling Club gave students an opportunity to develop and perfect their skills in an enjoyable way.

The Chess Club was sponsored by Mr. Larry Helphenstine. Members of the Chess Club found the quiet atmosphere ideal for the game that required skill and finesse.

The Chess Club successfully competed against teams from other high schools. "The Chess Club is a fun and exciting club," said Ed Lyster, sophomore. "You get to match your skills against those of students from other schools."

The Bowling Club had another successful season. The team practiced every Wednesday after school and competed on Friday nights at the Sport Bowl. The team was sponsored by Mr. John Hurt.

The team finished third in a league of eight teams. The team was led by senior Eddie Frederick. Eddie's highest series was a 729. He finished the season with the second highest average in the league. "The team had a great time and a good season," commented Eddie.

Injuries Hurt Team

Despite a disappointing record of 1-8, the varsity football team showed signs of being a good football team. The Redskins scalped their first opponent by a wide margin, but fell to defeat the next eight challenges due to a tough schedule and lack of depth. Plagued with a lot of injuries, the Redskins were forced to play with young, inexperienced players.

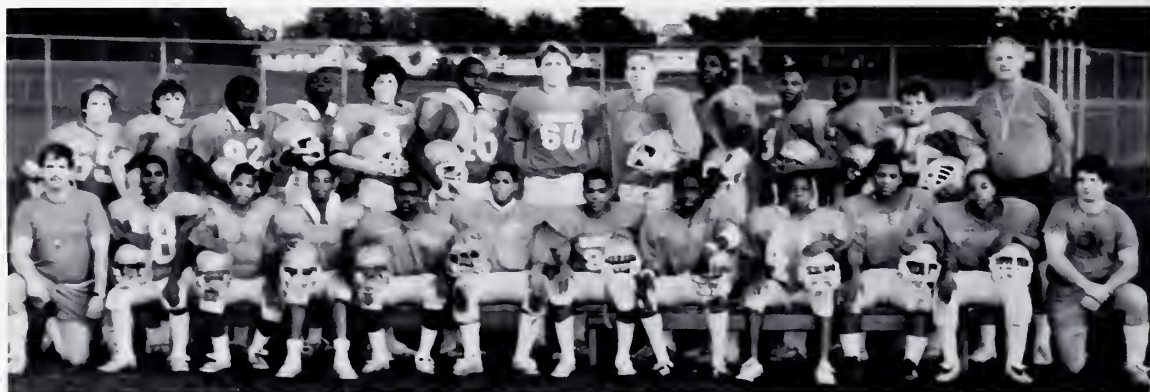

The season had many highlights. One of them was watching fullback Steve Cox carry the ball. Steve was among the city leaders in rushing. Another bright spot of the season was watching senior Charles Kennedy patrol the secondary. Making many tackles and batting away passes, Charles was a key factor to the defense. "We had the potential," commented senior quarterback James Pruett, "but we just couldn't put it together."

Coach Jackson said, "We are on the right track. This year's seniors have succeeded in laying the foundation for winning football games. It was frustrating for the seniors not winning more games, but we were greatly improved from last year, and our seniors did everything expected of them. Their efforts will be realized in the future."

A Season of Ups and Downs

The varsity volleyball team began the season with optimism. They did not post a winning season, but they worked hard and gained valuable experience for next year.

"This year's volleyball teams were eager to learn and to win. Although our records weren't so good, we still had the determination to do our best," said MVP Jana Morgan, senior. The four seniors on the team — Raynel Berry, Karen Romine, Jana Morgan, and Angie Tibbits — provided leadership and experience.

Several of the contests this season were decided by three close games. "In spite of having a losing season, it was definitely enjoyable. The girls we worked with put in a lot of hard work and were great to work with. Next year will be very tough because we are losing four good seniors and will have to rebuild the whole varsity unit with little experience," commented varsity coach Kate Lawrie.

"The girls on the reserve team were hard workers with a lot of determination. The girls have the potential to do well if they will keep working as a team," remarked Coach Karen Busch.

Golfers Improve; Harriers Post Winning Season

The golf team finished the season 3-9, but their scores improved throughout the season. Junior Robert Grey shared honors as one of the top golfers with junior Joey Howard, MVP. "It is always difficult to find other golfers to go along with these two," stated Coach Craig. "With our two best golfers being juniors, we are looking to improve on our record for the next two years."

The cross country team posted a 7-5 season. The MVP's were Caroline Carver, senior, and Darryl Whitlow, junior. "The team had a good season; we had tough competition which encouraged us to run longer and faster," commented Whitlow.

"Leadership by experienced runners was invaluable, and past coaching has been a great help," said Coach Mike Swinford.

Redskin Cagers Fight Uphill Battle

The varsity boys' basketball team encountered many difficulties this season. They had to face a tough schedule starting off against state-ranked Anderson. In the first part of the season, the Redskins had trouble combining their skills as a team. Plagued by turnovers and missed shots, the team lost its first five games.

Then, the Redskins took two scalps in a row. The first victory came against the Continentals of Washington on their home court, and the second was against Southmont in the Southmont Classic. Unfortunately, Manual dropped the second game of the Classic to Crawfordsville.

After that, the Redskins had to face a series of tough teams and lost the next five games to Broad Ripple, Perry Meridian, Chatard, Washington, and Arlington. Facing the Washington Continentals for the second time, the team lost their first game in the City Tourney.

The next game was against the very strong Golden Knights of Arlington which the Redskins also lost. This loss seemed to shake the team up a bit because they began to play much better after that.

The next three games were against the Howe Hornets, Southport Cardinals, and once again the Arlington Golden Knights, all of which were good teams. Even though the Redskins lost these three games, they showed intensity and a strong desire to win, losing by a three-game total of five points.

The team defeated Ritter in the next game, but lost to Tech after that. In the first game of the sectionals, Manual lost a heartbreaker in over-time against Decatur Central.

For the Redskins, this season seemed to be one of development. Their season record may not show it, but they improved tremendously as the season progressed.

Individual Efforts Applauded

The girls' basketball team had a season of four wins and fourteen losses, but their record did not accurately reflect how hard the girls played. "The team demonstrated the ability to perform at a controlled high intensity level," commented coach Tim Boykin. "They have shown that they are quality competitors and have the potential to be top contenders." The girls demonstrated this in games against Perry Meridian and Howe in the sectionals.

Rachel Haley, MVP, was named to the All-City girls' basketball second team. "Rachel had a number of outstanding games during the season," said Coach Boykin. Carol Riley also had a good season. "Carol's performance improved dramatically as the season progressed," said Coach Boykin. Both of these players "had the ability to score when needed."

Coach Boykin had high hopes for next year's team. "The team will need to develop consistency in performance level," he said.

Commenting on making the second team, Rachel remarked, "I was a little disappointed at not making the first team, but really, it didn't bother me." Rachel, a junior, averaged 19.3 points per game, and totaled 328 points for the year. Her high game was 33 points against Perry Meridian.

SHOWING HER COMPETITIVE spirit, junior Rachel Haley snatches the ball away from her Secina opponent.

Individual Efforts Highlight the Baseball Season

The baseball team finished the 1986 season with a 13-14 record, although many of the losses came in the final inning. The team consisted of eight graduates, five seniors, and two juniors.

The team started off the season slowly, but as the season progressed, they were in full stride. Coach Bill Rosenstihl said, "The team was much improved over the previous year, but the team couldn't quite get things together to win the big games."

Under the superb pitching of senior Steve Burgess, the Redskins squeezed by Lawrence North 1-0. Burgess pitched a one-hit shutout and struck out nine players.

An outstanding performance was turned in by senior James Pruett when the team crushed Broad Ripple by a score of 14-4. Pruett had four hits, including a home run and a double. He also scored three times.

Against Attucks, outstanding hitting by 1986 graduates Donnie Beard and John Barron and a grand slam by senior Mark Van Horn led the team to a 12-1 victory.

Throughout the season, the players showed signs of being a very good team with some excellent play from time to time. The team lacked the consistency that it takes for a winning season.

New Coach and Young Team Grow Together

The girls softball team was sparked by the flames of Rick Hustedt, the new varsity coach, and reserve coach Steve Dietz.

The tribe was led by the co-captains, Teresa Eggert and Jackie Johns, both 1986 graduates, and MVP, senior Sherry Cox. Sherry commented, "We were inexperienced in every sense. Besides having only two seniors, we had a new coach. We had a lot of fun, but we also learned a lot. By the end of the season, the pieces fell into place as our inexperience seemed to fade away."

The girls finished the season with a 7-10 record. The girls showed improvement throughout the season, losing several games by only one or two runs.

The tribe was ready for war as they charged into the city tourney, defeating Broad Ripple by a score of 14-10. The 'skins were shot down by Chatard in the final game of the city tourney.

The team ended its season terrorizing Tech 18-4, but fell prey to Howe in the final game of the sectionals.

Team Effort Leads to Successful Track Season

The Boys' Track team ended their season on a winning note. This win marked thirty-two straight winning seasons under Coach Francis "Moe" Moriarity. The varsity team ended their season with 7 wins and 4 losses, while the JV's had 8 wins and 3 losses.

Although the victories were the result of total team effort, several individuals proved to be outstanding. Juan Tobin, junior, took Manual to a fourth place in the state track meet. He was state champion in the long jump and scored in both the 100 and 200.

Robert Rippy, 1986 graduate, was one of the top distance runners in the city. Tobin and Rippy were voted co-MVP's for the season.

Tony Owens and John Crowell also gave outstanding performances during the season.

Experience Brings Success

The girls' track team improved more than their season record indicated. They began their season with indoor conditioning routines while eagerly awaiting the warm days of spring when they could actually get on the track.

The team was fortunate enough to have several exceptional runners and high jumpers.

The girls won their first meet of the season against Washington before faltering to their next three opponents. They came back to post wins against Scecina, Attucks, and Broad Ripple.

While the season record showed 5-5, there were several highlights that made it a winning season.

In the meet with Roncalli, senior Wanda Reaves dashed for three firsts in the 100, the 200, and the 400 meter dashes. Danita McClendon did well in the long jump and Yvette Johnson excelled in the high jump. Both graduates will be missed.

Wanda Reaves and Yvette Johnson were named co-MVP's for the season. "I really enjoyed the season. I hope that next year I can improve my performance and that we can have a good season," said senior Wanda Reaves, as she reflected on the season.

Grapplers Struggle During Season

The 1987 varsity wrestling team faced an uphill climb when the season began. With several returning lettermen and three returning seniors, prospects for a winning season were bright. Soon, however, the troubles began.

Manual graduate Mr. Jason Godsey came on board to help with the team because of the illness of head coach Mr. Al Pike. Mr. Mike Swinford became the new J-V coach. "I really enjoyed the season," commented Coach Swinford. "The boys worked hard and should be tougher competitors next year."

Although the season record was 5-9-1, the season was a better one than the record indicated. Varsity wrestlers Joe Passios, senior, and Marcus Cook, sophomore, both had very good seasons. Joe Passios was the season's MVP, and he represented his team at the regionals.

Coach Pike, a veteran of many outstanding wrestling seasons, felt that this year's team did not perform to their potential. In expressing his feelings about the season, he commented, "This is the most disappointing season I've ever had."

As soon as the season ended, plans were underway to develop the talent that would be returning for next season.

AS HIS WRESTLERS take on Secina, Coach Pike watches the action closely.

IN HIS ATTEMPT to get a take down and a victory, senior Cory Vaughn grabs his opponent's leg.

DOING HIS PART toward a team victory, freshman Keith Thacker pins his man.

HIS OPPONENT may have the move momentarily, but sophomore Paul Flandermeyer plots a move that will bring him a victory.

Gaining Experience

The boys' tennis team struggled through the season with only one senior. Playing No. 1 singles was junior John Hurt. At No. 2 singles was the team's lone senior and MVP Scott Begley. Junior Bob Gray held the No. 3 singles position. The No. 1 doubles team was junior Scott Davis and sophomore Eddie Lyster, while sophomore Todd Roberts and freshman Travis Stumpf held the No. 2 doubles.

"After this disappointing season, we can only look forward to next year. I am confident that with a more experienced team we shall have a better season next year," commented junior Bob Gray.

The No. 1 doubles team was composed of 1986 graduate Amy Klemm and sophomore Amy Bane, while junior Allison Hannon and sophomore Lisa Otero played No. 2 doubles.

Coach Kathryn Lawrie remarked, "For the past two years or so we have played without a full squad. Hopefully we can return soon as the best of the city schools as we have been in the past."

Cheerleaders Rally School Spirit

The first activity for the newly elected cheerleaders came during the summer when they spent a week at the International Cheerleading Foundation camp at Indiana University.

"I really had fun at the camp," remarked junior Angie Browning. "Even though we had to get up at 7:00 A.M., I still loved it."

As a part of camp, the cheerleaders competed against squads from other schools. The reserve squad won second place for the most improved squad. The prize money was used for new uniforms.

During the football season, the girls cheered for the Redskins at every game. Homecoming was a special occasion for the cheerleaders. They had an opportunity to meet and cheer with a group of alumni cheerleaders who were honored at this special occasion.

The freshman cheerleaders were elected in the fall after first completing a practice session and going through try-outs. The boostermen were athletes who worked with the varsity cheerleaders at basketball games.

Supervised by Mrs. Kim McFall and Mrs. Sandy Schultz, these squads remained very active throughout the year.

FRESHMAN CHEERLEADERS: Clockwise top: April Wilson, Jonette Scott, Shetona Barnett, Shauna Hacker.

BOOSTERMEN: David Sever, Andres Aristegui, Steve White, James Pruett, Kevin Schwab, Joey Bruce, Butch Hix.

Seniors Build Memories at Homecoming

Despite the steady drizzle, Manual fans remained undaunted in displaying their spirit at the 1986 Homecoming. Playing against rival Northwest High School, the game proved to be a tough match for the Redskin team, which eventually lost 36-6. Through all the mud and discouragement, as the scoreboard showed the growing gap between the two teams, the Redskins took heart knowing their school and alumni were backing them one-hundred per cent.

Throughout the week leading up to the game, Redskins displayed their school spirit and team support by participating in Hawaiian-shirt day, Fifties day, red and white day, and the Homecoming poster contest.

Another avid display of Redskin spirit was obvious in the hall-decorating contest, in which the freshmen won first place.

During half-time, the rain stopped and the fired-up juniors and seniors boarded their respective spirit trucks for a half-lap around the track, followed by the Homecoming king and queen candidates.

"My freshman year I remember being so in awe of the senior Homecoming queen candidates. I never dreamed, then, that I'd be one, too," commented queen candidate Raynel Berry.

After the candidates proceeded to the colorful arch that was provided by the Senior Class, King Charles Kennedy was crowned by 1985 Homecoming Queen Kim McNeely, and Queen Nicole Davis was crowned by 1986 graduate Steve Minton.

As the crowds enthusiastically cheered and cameras flashed wildly, candidates left the field as the alumni cheerleaders formed a line to show that the passage of time had not discouraged their fierce support of the Manual Redskins.

As the time clock showed the end of half-time, the rain resumed, and many Redskins ran for cover in order to salvage their Homecoming mums that had been sold by Masoma and to prepare for the Homecoming dance sponsored by the Key Club.

AS PART OF THE HALF-TIME CELEBRATION, the seniors show their school spirit as they ride in the senior truck.

REIGNING AS KING AND QUEEN of the Homecoming festivities are seniors Charles Kennedy and Nicole Davis.

THE TEAM PHYSICIAN, Dr. Ken Young, checks the injured arm of John Hinton, junior.

SHOWING HER PRIDE, sophomore Dionne Leslie, cheers enthusiastically.

ALUMNI CHEERLEADERS return for a half-time show as part of Homecoming.

THE RAINY EVENING did not dampen the spirit of the cheerleaders as they encourage the Redskin team.

Hayride: Night of Country Fun for City Seniors

Donning cowboy hats, boots, and flannel shirts, seniors held the first annual senior class hayride to promote class spirit and fellowship.

Forty-eight seniors and their guests had a weiner roast, sang songs around a bonfire, and enjoyed a hayride. Chaperoned by Mr.

Mike Swinford and Mrs. Karen Busch, Redskins braved the cold November wind, determined to have fun. And enjoy themselves they did!

Mr. Swinford and senior Mike Grizzle played a guitar and a banjo for a senior sing-along. Mrs. Busch reigned supreme in the Chubby Bunny Marshmallow-eating contest until challenged by senior Craig Flandermeyer, who became the undisputed champion.

Mrs. Busch led the group in a game of Charades. Senior Brian Lakstins proved to be the most alert, although he had to do all his actions while on crutches.

Next seniors piled onto two hay wagons for an hour of laughter and song. Throwing hay and singing at the top of their lungs, they relished being seniors. They proved it was still special to be a senior.

SENIORS AND THEIR GUESTS pile onto one of the two wagons to begin the senior hayride.

OBVIOUSLY ENJOYING a roasted marshmallow is senior Regina Ball.

GOOD OLE' BOYS senior Mike Grizzle and chaperon Mr. Mike Swinford strum a medley of duets around the bonfire.

WARMING THEMSELVES around the bonfire, seniors and their guests roast hot dogs and marshmallows.

AFTER ROASTING MARSHMALLOWS, sophomore Angie Bills and senior Tim Czobakowski try to decide who will get the burnt one.

CHUBBY BUNNY Marshmallow-eating contest champion Craig Flandermeyer, senior, takes on respected challenger, chaperon Mrs. Karen Busch.

WHILE SITTING AROUND the bonfire, seniors Tamatha Crist, Angie Tibbits, Rhonda Hawley, and Karen Romine take their turn at Charades.

ACTING PRINCIPAL Raynel Berry, senior, "disciplines" Mike Grizzle, senior.

ON TURNABOUT DAY Rhonda Hawley, senior, seems perfectly confident as a biology teacher.

TAKING HER ROLE as "teacher for a day" seriously, Charletta Curry, senior, instructs her class.

DISCUSSING SOME ESSENTIAL PAPERWORK are Gina Ball, senior, and Mr. Donald Oldham, vice-principal.

GREETING HER ENGLISH CLASS with a smile, senior Kim Kelly teaches Mrs. Kathryn Guignard's classes on Turnabout Day.

TAKING A BREAK from the day's routine are Aletha Gee, senior, and Mr. Lou Caporale, vice-principal.

Teachers and Seniors Change Places

One long-standing tradition that many seniors look forward to with enthusiasm is the annual Turnabout Day, which took place during American Education Week.

On this day seniors became teachers for a day. The seniors planned lessons, taught the lesson, gave quizzes or tests, and followed the teacher's schedule for an entire day. Most seniors were treated to lunch by their teacher.

As teachers for a day, seniors could even assign conferences, discipline students, and even spend a period in the teachers' lounge.

Although many underclassmen were surprised to see the new teacher when they walked into class that day, most of them welcomed the change of pace.

Seniors learned what a teacher's day is really like. When Turnabout Day came to an end, the turnabout was no longer the teacher; he assumed the role of student once again.

S-E-N-I-O-R-S — Seniors, Seniors, yes, yes, yes!

Re-instating the traditional powderpuff football game, the Senior Class of 1987 challenged the junior girls to a game of flag football that proved to be both a boost to class spirit and a great deal of fun.

Held on October 30, the powderpuff football game was organized by the senior council and its sponsor, Mr. Dennis Jackson, who also coached the senior team. The junior team, coached by senior Mike Grizzle, was ranked #1 after three days of practice. They were expected to win by three touchdowns.

The sophomore team was coached by Mr. Mike Swinford. The victorious freshman team was coached by Miss Kate Lawrie and Mrs. Karen Busch, who also assisted their team's win by playing on the team. The freshmen beat the sophomores 14-0.

The teams were encouraged by several powderpuff cheerleaders. Between games, a "Hunk" competition was held. Senior Michael "Michelle" Page was determined the winner by applause.

Announcers for the game were seniors Craig Flandermeyer and Erin Hartwell, who kept spectators informed of scores and penalties. With their frequent witticisms, they reminded both players and spectators that the game was all in fun and the beautiful weather made it a perfect day for the game.

The seniors upset the juniors 18-

6. Junior Rachel Haley ran the ball for the juniors' only touchdown. Wanda Reaves, Sherry Cox, and Tracey Amey scored for the seniors.

With less than two minutes remaining, the game was called for unnecessary roughness. As the seniors celebrated on the sidelines, it was obvious that the true spirit of the Class of 1987 was finally shining through.

DODGING DEFENSIVE JUNIORS, Kim Zentz advances the ball for the seniors.

"FASTER THAN a speeding bullet," senior Wanda Reaves dashes through the junior line in the hopes of scoring a touchdown.

WITH CHANTS of "87" and "Yes, we are the seniors!" the senior team and fans celebrate victory.

Involved Seniors Make A Difference

The Senior Class spent a busy year involved in many activities. Certain privileges were acquired when one became a senior. Besides rejoicing in the right to finally sit in the senior section of the cafeteria and the gloating over the underclassmen, seniors also took a serious approach to best utilizing what little time together they had left. Seniors participated in both a powderpuff football game and a senior class hayride.

Fundraising played an important role in the success of planned activities for the year. During the Christmas season, they sold chances on a jar of M & M's. Later in the year the class sold candy.

In May, many seniors attended the annual King's Island Grad Nite. The following week seniors attended the Senior Prom at the Atkinson Hotel in The Grand Ballroom. The theme of the prom was "Never Say Good-bye," and the band for the evening was Promise. Afterwards, seniors and their guests were invited to attend the after-prom at the Boys' Club.

According to Senior Class Sponsor Mr. Dennis Jackson, "This year's Senior Class was well-organized and was very active, doing more things involving more seniors."

SENIOR COUNCIL MEMBERS discuss the organization of prom committees.

Juniors Earn Recognition for Their Efforts

The class of 1988 returned to school with expectations of a busy yet rewarding year. They were upperclassmen now. Some thought that being a junior meant only one thing — one year left. But to most juniors, it meant a year of organized class activities.

"Being a junior is one step away from graduation. This is the year that most people start to think of plans for after graduation," remarked junior Audrey Wheeler.

In October, the Junior Class elected its officers. They were Kristi Schwert, president; Melissa Light, vice-president; Nicole Robinson, secretary; and Carol McFarland, treasurer. The class sponsor was Mr. Willard D. Henderson.

Following a Manual tradition, the Junior Class decorated the school Christmas tree in the main office.

One of the highlights of the junior year was the annual Junior Class Recognition Day on March 11. This was a dress-up day that juniors looked forward to. The day concluded with the announcing of the Top Ten Juniors.

In May the juniors danced the night away in the romantic setting at the Junior Prom.

In the spring outstanding juniors were accepted for membership in three honoraries: Masoma, Roines, and National Honor Society.

Sophomores Take Active Role Around School

The sophomore year was a busy one that was marked by maturity. Each year of high school has its own characteristics and the sophomore year is no exception. Sophomores became more serious. Gone were the frivolous actions of the freshman year. Most sophomores chose their classes with an eye toward the future.

During the year many sophomores looked forward to getting a driver's license. Others concentrated on finding a part-time job.

Since the sophomore class is the only class that does not have any organized activities, the sophomores found ways to show their school spirit. They participated in every sport and some turned in outstanding performances. Sophomores also found time in their busy schedules to take an active role in clubs, musical groups, and Redskin Revue. At football and basketball games, the sophomores cheered for the Redskin team, either as cheerleaders or as members of the cheer block.

Eddie Lyster, sophomore member of the boys tennis team commented, "I enjoyed playing tennis for Manual because it taught me responsibility and because it is a lot of fun."

Throughout the school year sophomores found themselves being more concerned about their academic performance. They began setting goals and planning for their future. Sophomore Sherri Rees summed up the feelings of most sophomores when she remarked, "I love being a sophomore, but I'm going to love being a senior more!"

Class of 1990 Starts Building Memories

In September the freshmen entered high school filled with a variety of emotions. For some it was just one year of school, but for most it was a milestone. Going to high school was something they had been looking forward to. It was positive proof that they weren't kids anymore. These four years of high school would determine how the rest of their lives would be.

Some freshmen had a hard time adapting to a new building, new classes, new teachers, and new freedom. After the first couple of weeks they seemed to have settled into a daily routine.

Freshmen soon became involved in many sports, clubs, and activities that high school offered. Nakita Smith and Shaun Relford served as papooses at the homecoming festivities. Freshmen were the guests at a football game, a tradition that helped new students get that Redskin spirit.

Tonja Killmon expressed the feeling that many freshmen shared when she said, "I like high school. The teachers are friendly and they encourage you. I also like the way our classes are."

By the end of their first year of high school, the freshmen had many experiences that they could store away in their memory banks.

FOLLOWING TRADITION, retirees Victor McDowell, Dorothea Frazee, Helen Negley, Joan Bennett, and Leland Walter proudly show off their Manula caps presented to them by the athletic department.

A September Welcome; a June Farewell

The opening of school brought with it several changes in the staff. Some familiar faces were missing due to retirement and reassignment.

With the closing of Crispus Attucks and John Marshall high schools, Manual acquired new students and twenty-four new faculty and staff members. These administrators, teachers, secretaries, and students adjusted to their new surroundings and soon became Redskins.

Most of the newcomers found Manual to be an enjoyable and interesting school. Mr. Charles Crawford, science teacher, liked "the friendliness and cooperation of the students, faculty and administration."

Mr. Raymond Brandes, a graduate of Manual, returned to his alma mater as head of the music department when Marshall closed. He remarked, "I am right back where I started as a teenager on the southside of Indianapolis."

Several teachers chose to retire at the end of the school year. Having served Manual for many years, most of them agreed that they would greatly miss the friends they made with students and the faculty. They also agreed that they would not miss getting up early or driving to school on slick, snowy streets. The paper work, the discipline, and the daily routine would not be missed at all.

They all had plans for the retirement years. Mr. Don Johnson, art department head, planned to keep busy during his retirement. "My wife and I have a small antique business," he said, "which we plan to expand after we retire."

Dr. Charlotte Camfield, retiring head of the business department, planned "to do those things which I never could find the time for before: travel, volunteer community service, Bible study classes, needle art sewing, growing flowers, and becoming a better cook."

After thirty-eight years of teaching, Mr. Francis "Moe" Moriarity, dean of Manual's coaching staff, decided to retire. Moe spoke highly of the students he taught and coached. "I hope I've made some kind of a good influence on their lives," he said. "Because of my love of coaching, I'll have the satisfaction of knowing that everyone I've ever coached has been on a winning team."

Travel was high on the list of things these retirees planned to do. Dr. William Taylor, head of the science department, planned to travel and visit with his son and family. He also considered teaching on the college level.

In addition to traveling, Mr. Paul Johnson, head of the social studies department, added fishing, hunting, and reading to his plans for retirement.

"I should like to do whatever is enjoyable such as reading, playing bridge, and having a vacation in the sunshine where I can swim and walk on the beach," commented Mrs. Polly Sterling, English teacher.

Their plans for retirement were as varied as their teaching careers.

Travels Provide Education and Adventure

"On your left we have the Smithsonian Institution."

"Hurry up, we're going to miss the bus!"

"As partners in education, Eli Lilly has provided us with the opportunity to . . ."

Throughout the 1986-87 school year, students at Manual were given several opportunities to travel outside of school. These experiences enhanced the student's knowledge and understanding, but more importantly, they provided a challenge for Manualites.

The most widely traveled group of students belonged to Mr. Fred Bennett's Humanities class. To enable students to better understand the subjects they studied in Humanities, Bennett organized trips to Chicago, Illinois, and Cincinnati, Ohio. While in these cities students visited several museums.

Equally appreciated by the students, however, were the less-structured portions of the trips such as the evening spent in Chinatown in Chicago, or the afternoon spent in the well-known Cincinnati Zoo.

Students in the Social Studies department also were given the opportunity to gain knowledge through travel. Close-up, a program that allowed students to travel to Washington, D.C. to better understand the government and its workings, once again invited Manual students to participate. Besides being an in-depth study of government-in-action, Close-up took students on tours of the city and presented several political leaders to lead group discussions.

Closer to home, English, science, and math students attended several programs that were sponsored by Eli Lilly and Co. Applied Economics students traveled to Lillys to gain officer training for their respective student-operated companies.

Overall, field trips in 1987 provided students with greatly appreciated breaks from the daily rigors of the classroom. Through their ventures outside of school, students gained both practical knowledge and a greater understanding of their studies. Equally important, however, was the personal growth and the special memories gained by each participant.

A BABY ELEPHANT at the Cincinnati Zoo begs Humanities students for peanuts.

HUMANITIES TEACHER Mr. Fred Bennett beams enthusiastically at a work in the Chicago Museum of Art.

STANDING TALL overlooking the Potomac, the Washington Monument is a stop on Close-up tours.

APPLIED ECONOMICS CLASS officers take a tour of Eli Lilly facilities prior to their officer training session.

SEEING CAPITOL HILL is an all-day adventure for students who participate in the Close-up project.

EXAMINING A MINIATURE display in the Chicago Museum of Art is Humanities student Robin Ganstine, senior.

THE EXCITING ENTRANCE to Chinatown greets Humanities students after a hard day of study in Chicago.

LISTENING INTENTLY to the guide's explanation are Humanities students senior Michelle Minor and junior Dawn Kleppen.

Second Annual Auction A Success

Celebration '87, the second annual auction, was held in the school gym. Sponsored by Manual's athletic department, the purpose of the auction was to raise money for the school's athletic programs.

The evening began with a chili supper in the school cafeteria. The chili was prepared by Manual graduate Nick Ferris of Nick's Chili Parlor.

The highlight of the evening was the two auctions. At the silent auction, bidders wrote their name and their bid on a sheet of paper. The last bidder on the sheet got the item.

Tom Mascari and Ed Hoeping were the auctioneers for the evening. This year's special guest was Ron Meyer, the new head coach of the Indianapolis Colts. With him was Tom Zupancic, strength coach for the Colts. To the highest bidder, Coach Meyer offered a day with him at the Colts training facility.

Following the auction, an over-twenty-one dance was held in the upper gym. Alumni, parents, and friends of Manual danced to the music of the band Promise.

Athletic Director Ray Schultz stated what was obvious to all when he boasted, "Celebration '87 was a huge success. It provided Manual's athletic department with much-needed funds, as well as providing the community with an opportunity to show their support and interest."

THE MANUAL ATHLETIC jackets, one of many items available at the auction, catch the eye of Mrs. Kathryn Guignard, English teacher.

WAITING IN LINE to purchase tickets for the chili supper are English teacher Mr. Dennis Jackson and his family. Miss Dorothy Powell, English teacher waits her turn to sell tickets.

GUESTS LINE UP for "Nick's Chili" which was served in the cafeteria before the auction.

DOING THEIR PART to make the auction a success, cheerleaders K.C. McCombs and Angie Browning show the crowd the next item up for bidding.

POSING FOR A PICTURE with Amigo, the mascot of the Pan Am games is Tom Zupancic, strength coach for the Indianapolis Colts.

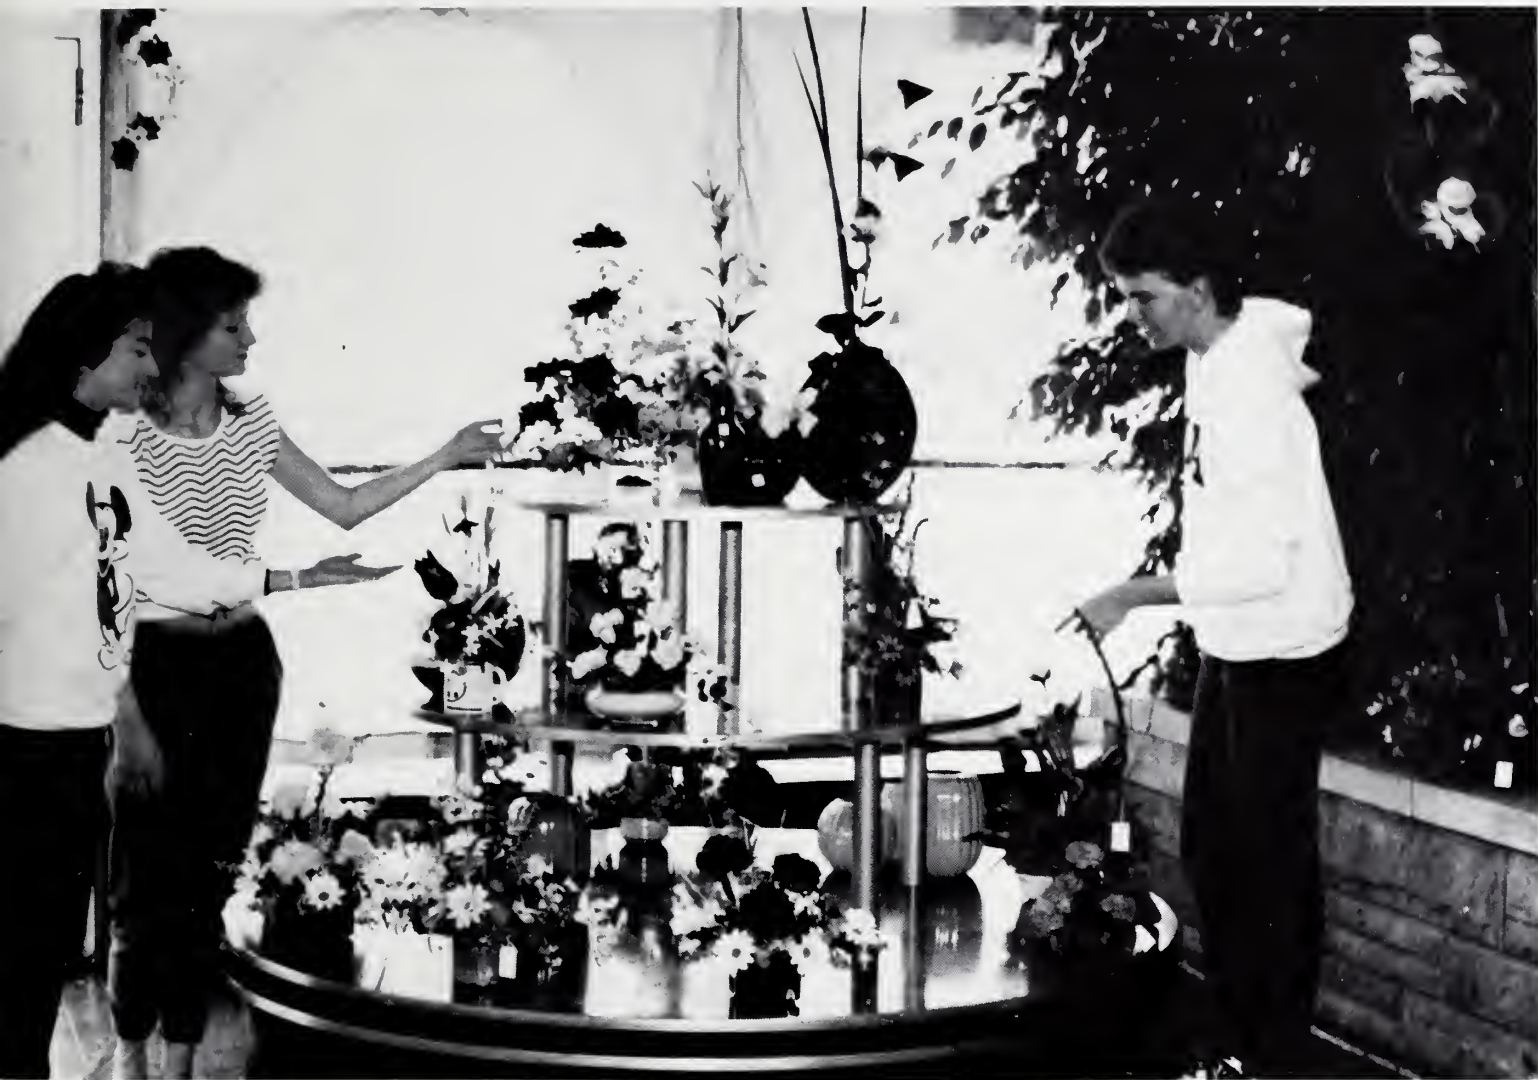

JAZZERCISE INSTRUCTORS entertain the crowd in the gym prior to the auction.

THE FINEST IN SCHOOL PORTRAITURE

The Hoosier spirit.
RCA's got it!

Our Hoosier heritage is an asset as real as the "made in Indiana" home entertainment products that carry the RCA nameplate. We've learned that what makes Indiana a great place to live and work is its wide-eyed optimism, mixed with a healthy dose of common sense. No matter how sophisticated RCA products become, our lasting success still depends on old-fashioned values like hard work and slick-to-liveness. That's the kind of spirit that prevails in Indiana, and we're glad it's rubbed off on us.

Acknowledgements

The times of our lives, captured in this book, will fuel our memories for years to come. We have attempted to accurately portray our school, our activities, our friends, and our world.

Without the help of some very special people, we could not have produced this book. We extend our appreciation to Mr. Larry Glaze, our Herff Jones representative; Root Photographers, our official senior photographer; the photographers from Root Photographers; and to Lifetouch National School Studios, Inc., our underclass photographers.

Additional thanks go to Mr. John Hurt for taking pictures for us and to Mrs. Kathryn Guignard for the help and encouragement she gave us.

We also wish to thank the teachers for their patience on underclass and club picture days. Finally, we would like to express our gratitude to the faculty, staff, administration, and students for aiding in the supply of information for this book.
